CCS Media

Our Plastic Free Pledge

CCS Media are proud to be supporting The Plastic Free Pledge

We've joined the Plastic Free Community network to free our business, and where we live, from single-use plastic

The Plastic Free Pledge

CCS Media, an exceptional IT Solutions & Service provider, has pledged to reduce single-use plastic within its business, in a bid to help tackle the growing issue of plastic waste.

We have signed up to become a Plastic Free Partner of Plastic Free Chesterfield, a campaign consortium working to reduce single-use plastics in the local borough, in association with national charity Surfers Against Sewage.

We have committed to eradicating single-use plastics from all our offices by 2023.

Experts predict there will be more plastic than fish by weight in the world's oceans by 2050 if we don't make significant changes now.

Sustainability is crucial to our customers, our employees, our business, and the communities we live in. We have a responsibility to create a lasting positive legacy for our planet. We are passionate about contributing to our society to reduce single-use plastics.

Small changes can make a big difference and the pledge we have made demonstrates our commitment.

Greg Hewitt, Plastic Free Chesterfield Community Lead, said:

"We are absolutely thrilled to have CCS Media join our campaign and become our Flagship Employer. A business their size shows true commitment to the plastic-free cause, and this will go hand-in-hand with their superb environmental and corporate social responsibility policies.

We're really looking forward to working with CCS Media as well as Chesterfield Borough Council to continue to reduce unnecessary single-use plastics across the borough.

The news comes on the back of our brand-new business and community support group, where businesses and community organisations can network to share best practices for removing and reducing plastics from their day-to-day operations. We now invite Chesterfield's businesses and community organisations to join CCS Media and Chesterfield Borough Council in our campaign."
